However, due to the sensitivity of the Helical Array and the power consumption, the Deredeo must be stationary while the A system is operating. The Heavy Bolters could be replaced with a series of Heavy Flamers and an Aiolos Missile Launcher could be mounted on its carapace. Among his anti-vehicle armaments, the main one was the battery of Arachnus Heavy Lascannon. The Deredeo Pattern Dreadnought, like much of the technology developed at the dawn of the Imperium of Man, A the largest and most powerful of the most common Castraferrum Pattern Dreadnoughts used in the 41st millennium. There was a selection of arms (single or double Bolter, Lascannon or Missile Launcher) that fit the body, "wide" or "narrow" which in turn could have long or short legs. See also Castraferrum Dreadnought Contemporum Dreadnought Sources Gallery The original classes of Dreadnought published by Games Workshop were used by both the Space Marines and the Imperial Guard armies. Each arm had its own targeting program.
