Continue

PlayStation Plus members are getting a free skin for the PS4 version of Fortnite. This is the first exclusive cosmetic pack for the PS4 since December, with new skins releasing on PS4 every few months. This skin, called the Point Patroller, is an exclusive in-game cosmetic pack that will only be available for Fortnite players on PlayStation 4. The Point Patroller features a blue/silver/black pallet that matches the Sony PlayStation aesthetic, with the Recon Strike as a backpack. The skin is available on the PlayStation Store on April 14, just before the new Fortnite Update launched on April 15, for all PlayStation Plus Members with current subscriptions. Previously, these exclusive skins have only been available in-store for a few months, so make sure to download it while you still can. If you're behind on Fortnite at the moment don't worry, because Season 2 of Fortnite has been extended until June 4, when Season 3 will begin. You have until June 4 to collect and finish all of the Season 2 exclusives and challenges, so you'd better get started. GameSpot may get a commission from retail offers. Suits you, sir by Sammy Barker Wed 15th Dec 2021 You don't need to be subscribed to PS Plus in order to enjoy free-to-play games like Fortnite, but Sony tries to incentivise sign-ups by providing extra cosmetics to members. Following the recent release of Chapter 3, the Japanese giant has launched a new PS Plus Celebration Pack for Epic Games' aforementioned Battle Royale, which includes a skin and harvesting tool. The skin is Sultura, a male character in a blue leather garb with a distinctive mask and exposed white hair. Meanwhile, the harvesting tool is the Cymitar, an angular sword that works well with the costume's aesthetic. Both cosmetics are part of the Brute Force Set, and can currently only be obtained as part of PS Plus. To grab them, simply acquire them from Fortnite's add-ons section on the PS Store and they'll be added to your Locker when you next login. Will you be using this skin at all? While Fortnite Battle Royale is a free-to-play experience, which doesn't charge an entry fee, and allows for unlimited playtime with no cap, it still needs to make money somehow. Epic Games is hoping regular players feel the urge to invest in a Battle Pass, or just outright buy cosmetic unlocks. Money, or an excessive grind, has been the main method of getting that extra bit of exotic flair. Happily, for those of us determined to keep our wallets tightly shut, Epic Games is giving PlayStation Plus subscribers the chance to pick up a free Fortnite skin. You simply click here, add it to your basket, and then download it to your PS4. If you own a PS4, but play Fortnite on a different platform, you'll be happy to learn that unlocking the skin with PlayStation Plus — providing your Sony account is linked up to Epic Games' services — will also unlock it for other systems. This has been confirmed to work on PC, but we're still waiting for confirmation from an Xbox One player. But is the skin any good? I mean, if you're thinking about doing the workaround described above, you at least want to know what the skin looks like! Without any further ado, here it is: I mean, I think it looks cool enough, especially since I'm already a PlayStation Plus subscriber. Free stuff is rarely a bad thing, I suppose! What do you make of this Fortnite free skin? Will you be picking it up? Or were you hoping for something less blue and white? (I mean, it's not going to keep you hidden amongst the foliage!) H/T Reddit Fortnite (opens in new tab) is getting its own PS4 bundle with a special bonus skin this summer, according to what looks like an overeager post from the Italian PlayStation Facebook page. No other official PlayStation or Fortnite sources have shared the bundle so far, but Sony PlayStation Italia is Facebook-verified, so... it looks pretty legit. Since Fortnite is already free-to-play, the bundle has to be a bit more creative with stuff to include. Here's what you get for picking one up, according to the box art and automated translation of the Facebook post: A 500GB PS4 slim and controller, both in standard black. The Royale Bomber skin. 500 V-Bucks (in-game currency). It's not clear from the wording of the post whether the Royale Bomber skin (which has already been datamined and is viewable on Skin-Tracker (opens in new tab)) will be available exclusively via the bundle, but it's a good bet that it will at least start out that way. The other special reward, a bonus 500 V-Bucks, is kinda paltry if I'm being honest. It's enough to get you an emote, but probably not one of the cool dancing ones. Combine that with the 600 V-Bucks you get with a Fortnite Starter Pack (opens in new tab), though, and you have enough to pick up a Battle Pass with some left over - not to mention a cool extra skin. According to the Facebook page, the bundle will be available starting on July 16 in Italy, so it may take a little longer one way or the other to arrive in your region. Maybe, if we're lucky, Sony will decide to start allowing Fortnite Switch and Xbox One crossplay (opens in new tab) by then? Don't worry about getting started late - it can still be a ton of fun to suck at Fortnite (opens in new tab). Wondering how to get free skins in Fortnite, or if there even are any free skins? We've got all the details you need about the current free skins that you can claim in July 2022. Epic Games' hit battle royale Fortnite is known for its high-profile crossover skins as much as its fast-paced gunfights, but they can be quite expensive to buy — especially when it's a well-known character like Wonder Woman or Street Fighter's Blanka, Sakura, and Chun-Li. So naturally, any chance to get free skins is welcome in the world of Fortnite. But while free cosmetics like Gliders and Back Blings are actually fairly common, free skins are incredibly rare, so you'll need to keep an eye out if you want to get one. Below, you'll find all the information you need on any free skins that are currently available to claim in Fortnite, as well as details on previous free skins that have now expired. Updated on July 25 to add a free skin from the Refer A Friend scheme. Contents Are there any free skins in Fortnite? (July 2022) There are currently two free skins that players can claim in Fortnite, which we've listed below, along with the steps required needed to unlock them. It's very rare for Epic Games to give away free skins in Fortnite, so if there's a skin that you'd like to unlock above, make sure to get it while you can. We'll keep this page updated if any new skins are made available, so be sure to check back soon. How to get free skins in Fortnite There are different methods for getting free skins in Fortnite, but most of the time you'll need to put some effort in, such as opening a certain amount of presents during Winterfest or completing event challenges. Epic Games' Krisabelle and Polar Peely were free during Winterfest 2021. Every now and then, Epic Games will host themed tournaments for crossover characters, like Beast Boy or The Flash, alongside ICON Series skins for streamers like Chica, where the highest-ranking players can earn the skin for free before it goes on sale in the shop. It's incredibly rare to get codes for free skins in Fortnite, and this usually only happens with giveaways on social media. Be wary of searching for free codes online, as there are a lot of potential scams out there. All expired free skins in Fortnite Below you'll find all of the expired free skins we know about in Fortnite and how they were obtained: Are there any other ways to get free Fortnite skins? While it may not technically be free, players who subscribe to Fortnite Crew will receive loads of rewards including a new skin and matching cosmetics each month. It costs $11.99 (or £9.99) a month. Subscribing to Fortnite Crew also gives you access to the Battle Pass, which includes loads of skins to unlock as you collect XP. The current Battle Pass includes Doctor Strange and several other skins. This is definitely the most efficient and reliable way of getting new skins in Fortnite each month, although there is the cost of subscribing which means it's not quite 'free' in reality. Although players (including myself) complain that Epic Games release too many collaboration Fortnite skins, they provide more free cosmetics than any other game. There are a number of events that provide players with cosmetics. We've seen community challenges that reward all players with a free cosmetic if they log in during the specified time. An example of this is the Free Falling wrap. The community needed to work together to hit the 2.5 billion points goal. Fortnite Free Falling Leaf Animated Wrap Reward Some collaborations have provided free cosmetics too through challenges. The Marshmello Show Time challenges a couple of years ago rewarded players with a loading screen, emote, and a pickaxe. There's also a bunch of free skins and other cosmetics from events including the Christmas Winterfest event which is set to return tomorrow. Last year and the year prior, players could get a ton of free cosmetics including two free skins. Last year, players could get the Snowmando and Frost Squads skins for free and we've already leaked the Winterfest 2021 free skins and rewards here. PlayStation Plus players also get free cosmetics regularly through the Celebration Packs and there's new one for December 2021. How to Get the Free Sultura PS Plus Skin (PS4, PS5) The new PS Plus Celebration Pack provides players with the Sultura Fortnite skin along with the Cymitar Pickaxe. Here's a look at what the two free skins look like: December 2021 Free Sultura PS Plus Fortnite Skin In order to get the free PS Plus Skin for December 2021, head over to the PlayStation store. Search for Fortnite and you should see the new celebration pack. Simply add it to your cart and check out for free. We're not sure how long this Sultura skin pack will be available for, but it should be in the store for some time. It's definitely one of the best skins we've seen in these celebration packs and is better than the PS packs that only provide a pickaxe or back bling along with a contrail or spray.
