Westie Dog Breed is a crossbreed between the West Highland White Terrier and Poodle. This canine falls under the mini hybrid group that was formed by two breeds as well different. This hairy friend is really adorable as a family pet and well known for its calm temperament and problems of shedding of low fur. The joyous nature of this pooch makes a good connection with the family. History and Origin In Scotland, West Highland White Terriers were used for hunting small species and vermin. Initially, the color of the Territories was not only white, but there were also several subspecies of Terrier breeds. But once a colonel of Scotland was confused with a Terrier Breed and thought it was a fox. He shot the animal, and after that only the records of White Terrier Breeding are present. Poodle has historical evidence that support their presence in Egypt in the prehistoric era. During the late 1960s, Poodle Hybrid Poppies were started to develop which was called Cockapoo The early 1970s testified to the creation of this new poodle hybrid that gained its popularity as Westipoo Dog Breed. Initially, both West Highland Terrier and poodle were used for purpose. The years of breeding have brought the breed suitable structural resemblance to Poodle Breed and their temperament corresponds to that of Terrier. The weight of the dog Westipoo adult varies from 20lbs to 30lbs. Generally the characteristics depend on the dominant parent gene. Westiepool Dogs usually have white color pattern. But the color can vary in different shades of white like light gray and fawn. The texture of the coat has a wavy pattern with moderate depth and average length. Short legs well complement the model of the stout body. Temperacy and personality This breed has a calm and calm temperament. They look likevery attached to their owners and are ideal for the life of apartment. if this breed is left alone for a long time, they tend to develop useless dazzling habits. the nature of the wagons keeps the race occupied allThey have a loyal and affectionate nature and are good with children and other pets (pets). They are usually not very aggressive towards strangers, but this does not mean that any intruder can easily move without alarming the dog. So it can also help guard the place Care Exercise The breed does not require a vigorous ride. Regular walk for 20 minutes is more than enough for the dog. They make great jogging buddies and are enjoying some off-leash playtime as well. Their curious nature keeps the animal busy most of the time. Thus, the playful attitude keeps the dog active 24 hours a day. Grooming Moderately thick and curly hair coat requires a regular brushing and combing with a brush or stiff bristle to keep dead hair away. Often cutting out their coat will keep them clean and tidy. During the dry season, some hairs are shredded, which seems very nominal when compared to similar toy breeds. Shampoo and Conditioner free of strong chemicals and specially designed for dogs should be used for bathing. The fur should be blown-dried and nails cut when necessary. Health Problems Westipoo dogs are generally a healthy breed, with a lifespan of 12 to 15 years. Extreme temperatures cannot be tolerated by this breed. Common health problems suffered by this breed include In some of the canine problems such as craniomandibular osteopathy and globoid cell leukodystrophy has been recorded. Some genetic disorders of the parent breed may recur in the dog. The medium coat makes the breed less hypoallergenic. Training This mixed breed has been displaying natural intelligence since its inception. A simple leash training seems more than enough for the breed. Rough training can make your dog barker aggressive and natural. It is advisable to keep calm and clear by letting the dog understand a particular order. Be patient with them and train them consistently. They love to be rewarded and accept treats. Westiepool Puppies A female Westiepool dog gives birth to about 4-5 puppies. These puppies have similarities to cotton balls and are extremely adorable. Diet/Nutrition An adult Westiepool requires about 220gm of regular protein. Dry carbohydrate-free foods that contain the right amount of protein needed for proper growth and development of health can be administered. 2-3 meals a day with clean drinking water should be given to the dog. You can consult your veterinarian and follow a balanced diet to keep him free from health problems. Video: Puppies Westipoo Play Do you like cute, white and fluffy dogs? If so, then we think you're gonna love the Westiepool. You may have heard other names for Dog, too! A WestiePoo is also commonly referred to as a Westiedoodle and a Wee-Poo. This breed is a cross between a poodle and the West Highland Terrier. Most of us know that the poodle comes from Germany and has been raised to be a water recuperator. It is available in three main types known as the standard, standard, and toy. Considering that the West Highland Terrier comes from Scotland and has been used also for hunting fox, rats, badgers and otters. He is known for his distinctive white coat and is medium sized. Together these two breeds of hunting combined form the westriepool, which can reach 11-17 inches tall and weigh 20-35 pounds depending on its gender and the poodle's parent. Similarly, the Wesiepool has a life expectancy of 13-15 years. It is believed that the Westiepool is one of the original design breeds in the 70s and a common pet found all over the world. It is classified as a designer/hybrid breed because the American Kennel Club does not recognize it or any major dog club. However, some small clubs recognize the Wesiepool as the Register of Designer Breed, Designer Dogs Kennel Club and American Canine Club Hybrid Kennel.What are the traits of a Wesiepool? If you are looking for a new best friend with undoubted affection, then the Westiepool will be the dog for you. This breed is full of love, loves to be the center of attention, and enjoys a good belly scrub. Their friendly nature makes them perfect for any family with a family; They get along with children easily and other pets in the house. However, be warned, sometimes they can become excessively attached to a particular individual. If you're, the type of person who is away from home is away regularly or lives an outgoing lifestyle, then this breed can quickly develop separation anxiety. In addition, a wesiepool can easily become distressed, develop self-destructive behaviors and be noisy. Check out this post on Instagram a post shared by Westie (@Marley.Westie.) Because of their parents hunting instincts, the Westiepoos may also have a strong prey guidance. Don't be surprised if they try to chase cats, bring birds or other animals into your home. Sometimes they can develop watchdog behavior. When a new stranger comes into your house, they can bark for a few minutes, but eventually they calm down. Unlike some breeds, this dog is perfect for any small home as an apartment. Their average size does not require too much exercise and can easily adapt to any home. As for physical exercise, this breed needs about 45 minutes to 1 hour a day. Since they are a smart race, they require a lot of mental stimulation, so make sure you play with your Wesiepool as you hide and search, retrieve and use a Kong toy. Are wesiepoos easy to train? While training is a rewarding process for you as a dog owner, in the long run, we gird with you. We know how tiring it can be: Nobody wants to do this job! Similarly, formability can be one of the significant factors that influence you towards buying and bringing a specific breed of dog into your home. Well, let's share something with you. the westipoo are easy to train! due to their fun and easy personality please, collect commands and abilities quite easily. since they go with humans, this makes it the perfect opportunity for any family member, especiallyTo participate in training. It is also a great tie experience for the whole family. The best way to train this breed is through positive reinforcement and food-based rewards. Be aware, though, if you have no food to be delivered, they can potentially tighten you. After all, they have smart parents and cannot be motivated if they don't feel something about it for them /. Another essential point is because they are small, have a weaker bladder than other dogs. It can take a little more for toilets to train this cross as it takes time to train and learn to control the bladder. The best way to deal with this is to regulate bath breaks, a coherent routine, and an effective crate / toilet training. What is a WestiePoo appearing? Just like his parents, a Westiepool has a high-level spine and can have a square or rectangular body depending on what they inherit from their parents. Generally, their queues are high on their body and are curvy fit. A WestiePoo has distinct and wide eyes, which are oval or round. Also, they have a black nose, and the ears are on their head and can be both flat or vertical. Similar to the typical colors of their parents, a Westiepoos jacket tends to be white. However, it is not rare for it to have stains of gray, blonde and liver. About their coat, the fur of a westiepool will be short at medium length and can be witty, hedgehog, or both depending on what he inherits from his parent. If you are someone who does not love a lot of casino at home, then you will be happy to know this breed sheds very little. It can be classified as hypoallergenic, given the characteristics of his parents. For example, the Poodle does not melt at all, and the Westie loses only a little. Grooming requirements of a WestiePoo if you are looking for a dog that needs little maintenance, then the WestiePoo is an excellent breed to consider. Although it is low maintenance, it has yet to be brushed every few days to prevent its coat from becomes opaque next to its ears and eyes. Also, sometimes, a Westiepool should be brought to the spouses to have his fur-trimmed, this is easier to maintain. In addition to this, they need a bathroom once a month; Otherwise, you will seem disordered. To wash a WestiePoo, you should use a delicate shampoo and do it just around your eyes and ears. As for the ears, they must be cleaned every week or two to avoid the accumulation of excess dirt and moisture carried by their long surrounding hair. Their nails must also be cut once a month, and their teeth brushed a few times a week. Health problems faced by Westiepool Westiepoos can be a healthy breed; However, they can address some problems of The municipalities that can meet are as follows: Mitral Valve Disease - This begins with a Westiepool that has a slight murmur on their heart from an escape valve and becoming hesitant to exercise. If you'dThe disease becomes untreated, more blood will fill in the heart, causing weakness. This increases their chances of heart failure. This disease is detected by echocardiograms and X-rays. Early diagnosis and specific medications can help slow down mitral valve disease. Progressive renal atrophy â™ This disease is caused by several diseases that affect the dog's photoreceptor cells in their eyes. There is no cure for this; It may cause the dog's eyes to deteriorate and eventually lead to blindness. The best way for this is to take a wesiepool to regular screening programs.
