Correct reply: Keep up with the last daily buzz with the Buzzfeed daily newsletter! 1. Bethlehem is "home of bread" (response c). If this was destined to be a franchise, it didn't work. 2. Nicholas succeeded in being a saint and a bureaucrat (answer b). In fact, Nicholas was a bishop, which is a bureaucratic job in itself. Furthermore, the bishops in the late Roman empire were part of the civil service, with the management of judicial responsibilities and supervision of their dioceses. The emperor tended to trust the clergy more of his relatives. 3. There would be no Christmas parties in Oliver Cromwell (answer b). Exhaled Christmas celebration: Papery's shelves! Nevertheless, it is fun to imagine John Milton (the Flack PR of Cromwell) becomes drunk and poetically propasting to Mrs. Cromwell. 4. The answer is D: three children. Do not worry; Herod still had four children to save. He also performed a wife and a son. None of the daughters of him was so honored. To the credit of him, Herod has never performed any of the grandchildren of him. 5. Magi were priests of the religion Zoroastano, the dominant faith of the Empire of the Partno (answer a).
